Evolving with you...

Discover our TCS ventilation control system: excellence for your nautical needs...

Feit presents its advanced TCS ventilation management system. Designed to ensure optimal control of the speed and airflow of fans and extractors, our system provides a silent, loss-free airflow thanks to its aerodynamic design. The reverse function allows you to invert the rotation direction for greater flexibility.

Advantages that make a difference...

By installing the TCS, you reduce your electrical consumption and motor wear. In the nautical field, you'll especially appreciate the reduced noise when the system continues to operate to ventilate the engine room after navigation.

Components and features...

The system includes:
• A pre-wired electrical panel with local operation controls.
• A remote control panel with a display.
• Fans and extractors sized to meet your needs.

The electrical panel allows you to adjust the system locally, while the remote panel provides full control from a distance. This setup gives you the convenience of managing operations close to the equipment or from a remote location.
The emergency button, which can be integrated with the fire alarm system, ensures a rapid and effective shutdown if needed, enhancing overall safety.

Customization and accessories...

Feit offers options such as temperature and pressure sensors for automatic operation and high-quality touch screen panels for an elegant, modern interface.

Versatility and innovation...

The TCS system can be customized with advanced automatic features, such as automatic fan adjustment based on internal and external temperatures and ventilation/extraction ratio adjustment using pressure sensors.
This flexibility ensures that the system adapts to various operational conditions, optimizing performance and efficiency for any application.

Choose Feit for ventilation that combines quality, innovation, and customization. Discover why we are a benchmark in the nautical world.
